

[REDACTED]

From: Suzanne Jedryk [REDACTED]
Sent: Saturday, 3 November 2012 8:40 PM
To: Adjudication
Subject: Re: ACCC's initial assessment of AECL's CTM application
[SEC=UNCLASSIFIED]

Categories: Consented to PR, Response sent, AECL standard response

thank you - it is the right decision.

On Fri, Nov 2, 2012 at 9:52 AM, Adjudication <Adjudication@accc.gov.au> wrote:

> The ACCC has released its initial assessment of AECL's certification > trade mark (CTM) application (attached). The ACCC is proposing not to > approve the CTM because it considers that AECL's proposed standards > may mislead consumers about the nature of eggs described as 'free > range'. The proposed standards also do not meet other legislative > requirements in the Trade Marks Act.
>
> Interested parties have one month from the time the initial assessment > is published by IP Australia to provide submissions or seek a > conference, before the ACCC makes its final assessment. Submissions > should be emailed to CTMs@accc.gov.au.
>
> Further information about the ACCC's role in assessing applications to > register CTMs can be found at > <http://www.accc.gov.au/content/index.phtml/itemId/815802>.
>
> For any other queries, please contact David Hatfield on 02 6243 1266.