Dear Sir/Madam

ACCC mobile roaming inquiry

Broken Hill City Council welcomes and supports the ACCC's draft decision not to declare mobile roaming and your recognition of the overwhelming call from regional Australia to continue encouraging telecommunications investment and competition.

Mobile telecommunications are critical to the social and economic prosperity of rural and regional Australia. The most critical telecommunications issue for individuals, farms, businesses and communities is mobile coverage. We not only need greater coverage, but we need better coverage. Coverage is the most important issue for regional mobile customers, and where coverage exists it's important that mobile companies invest in the latest mobile technology.

It is Council's view that the best way to deliver greater choice is to encourage mobile companies to invest in their own network infrastructure in regional areas. Regulated roaming could increase retail mobile prices overall as other carriers seek to recoup the additional costs of providing services over Telstra's regional network.

Regulated roaming would diminish incentives to keep investing in our Broken Hill network, jeopardising future upgrades in coverage or technology without delivering additional coverage.

The value of investment in telecommunications infrastructure is not appreciated until you live, visit or invest in areas such as Broken Hill. The Broken Hill area is currently experiencing a mini resurgence in the mining sector in both traditional mining and renewable energies such as solar, cobalt (lithium) and wind farming and over the next three years we would anticipate upwards of 1500 jobs to be directly created through these initiatives.

Your final deliberations on mobile roaming is critical in ensuring that the incentive for telecommunications organisations to invest in mobile infrastructure be maintained. If this incentive is diminished or destroyed, it would be a disaster for rural and regional Australia and Broken Hill in particular.

Yours faithfully

JAMES RONCON
