Dear Ms Boersma

Thank you for your letter dated 15 April 2005 notifying the Australian Competition & Consumer Commission (the ACCC) of a change to notifications N91613, N91614, N91556, N91557, N91300 and N91301. You state that any reference to NetConnect as the Internet Service Provider (ISP) in the above notifications should be replaced with Grapevine.

The notified conduct is the offer by ActewAGL and TransACT of discounts or rebates to consumers in the ACT and surrounding areas in NSW who acquire a bundle of nominated services from ActewAGL, including electricity, gas, dial-up or broadband internet, and telephony services from TransACT for a fixed term.

Please note that the Trade Practices Act 1974 does not provide for notifications to be amended. However, we have noted the change in ISP and will maintain the letter on file as clarifying the arrangements that are the subject of the notification.

If you are concerned about the extent of the immunity afforded by the notifications in light of these changes, you may wish to consider lodging new notifications with the ACCC.

Should you have any queries, please do not hesitate to contact Bronwyn Davis on (02) 6243 1363.

Yours sincerely

Scott Gregson
