EXCLUDED FROM PUBLIC REGISTER

Good Afternoon,

Yes you may make this public. My name is Donna Machado, I have sold over 3,000 items on ebay, and through my personal experience, I cant tell you ebay states this is for the protection of the buyer, well this will not work. Its for their pockets, and about totally owning the system in which they receive from each and every seller on ebay in the form of paypal fees. They say security, if you wish to go to the Bbb in the US you will find 1,000's complaints about the use of paypal. Paypal is no more safer than any other form of payment, and most of the complaints or "bad buyer experiences, come from new buyers who don't read the auctions well, and from scamming sellers who are permitted to sell on ebay, as ebay is very slow in getting out the scammers, if they spent as much money on really wanting to get out the scamming going on in ebay, people would come back. I have reported a seller all week who was scamming people that's 5 new people I seen buy this fake item, and pay a huge 150.00 shipping fee to ship something for 1.00. This is why people don't come back. As to this day this seller continues to scam. Its not the payment method, its the system in which ebay allows bad sellers to continue selling on their platform. I have proof of this seller scamming, the buyers who got stuck say ebay did not help in canceling the transaction, as ebay would not cancel the transaction in there favor in spite of the seller being in the wrong about excessive shipping fees. There are many forms of payment that are just fine and work well. I never had a problem in all of 5 years, with any method but paypal! Paypal also has a class action suit against them for doing just this! Forcing people to only use paypal please see

Thank you for letting have my input,
