Dear ACCC,

I would like to register my interest in regards to the ebay decision to reduce the number of payment options.

I use ebay on a regular basis and have absolutely no problem with ebay using paypal as the primary payment source.

It is very simple to set up an account, and very quick transaction times, and buyer protection, which I wish I could have had in several ebay transactions that went awry. I have never experienced a problem with paypal transactions.

Also you would find that many personal bank accounts contain many bank account details of individuals as people tend to save the payee details on their internet banking so they have a record of that payee. I think this is potentially dangerous as you do not know how long that individual will keep your bank acc details stored in their internet banking memory.

Therefore I believe paypal is the safest option and if it costs slightly more to use then so be it.

kind regards,

Pete
