Dear Sir.

I refer to your article in Australian IT.

I would like to confirm that as a eBay user for the past 5 years I am to put it bluntly disgusted with eBay's decision to make PayPal the only option for payment! This is simply a money grabbing exercise and I will no longer be trading with eBay if this new policy is implemented!.

If this is a legitimate "security upgrade" eBay should implement at worst that sellers must offer PayPal as a payment option..buyers who did not choose this option for payment would do so at their own peril should an item go missing. This makes more sense.

Furthermore I am not willing to participate with a company that forces its clients to have to pay their way and also incur the additional fees, this is outrageous! The fee structure in eBay is already very heavily tilted in their favor.

I thank you for the opportunity of opinion.

Sincerely - Martin Brincat.
