Paypal only on Ebay

23rd April, 2008

I am a buyer on ebay who would one day like to sell some things on ebay too. I have only tried twice to pay through Paypal and had to receive a partial refund through them when a seller failed to send goods (even though that wasn't one of the occasions where I had paid through them.

Every time I had dealings with Paypal there was confusion and problems with verifying accounts etc. These experiences left me afraid to deal with Paypal only sellers. A local seller has problems because there is something wrong with the link to her bank account, so buyers pay via paypal but the transaction "bounces". More unhappy buyers and sellers.

Except for the one time a seller didn't send the goods, I have never had a problem with over 100 purchases using direct deposit. I have not met anyone from either a buyer or seller position who has had a problem worth mentioning with direct deposit. When I had to apply for my refund my bank statment was my proof of payment.

I have seen a lot more sellers state "No Paypal for Australian buyers" than Paypal only sellers. Surely, that says a lot.

Please leave us our choice.

Thank you,
Tracy Hoggarth
