

Roy, Lauren

---

Subject: eBay International A.G. notification N93365 [SEC=UNCLASSIFIED]

Importance: High

---

From: Christine Steen [REDACTED]

Sent: Friday, 2 May 2008 2:58 PM

To: Roy, Lauren

Subject: Re: eBay International A.G. notification N93365 [SEC=UNCLASSIFIED]

Importance: High

EXCLUDED FROM PUBLIC REGISTER

Please treat my email as a submission and add the following clause from the Paypal protection policy. You will note from this clause Paypal does NOT protect sellers and Paypal/Ebay are guilty of false and misleading advertising & conduct

'In the event that a PayPal Buyer Complaint Policy claim is decided in the buyer's favour, you are responsible for reimbursing the buyer for the amount of the payment. In addition, if a PayPal Buyer Protection Policy claim is decided in the buyer's favour, you are responsible for reimbursing PayPal for the amount refunded to the buyer. This could mean that your PayPal account balance may reflect an amount owing to PayPal, and your account access may be limited. In the event that a claim is filed against you, we recommend keeping sufficient funds in your PayPal account to cover the refund of the payment and avoid your balance becoming negative.'