I wish to lodge my formal opposition to this proposal for eBay to be provided exclusive dealing status.

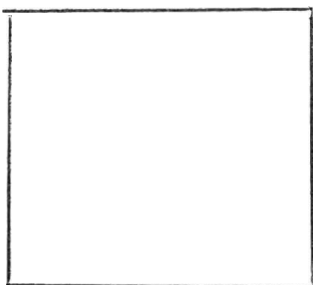

My opposition is based on two main areas:

1. By only allowing paypal a lot of ma and pa sellers who sell small amounts on eBay will be disadvantaged as they will have to upgrade from a free account with limited amount of payment s received to a business account with higher fees and charges just to do what they did before by having payments direct deposited. I can hardly see how a secure bank account site can be less secure than the eBay owned paypal which is no more secure than direct deposit.

2. If eBay is allowed to carry out its proposal to only have paypal used for payment then I feel there will be a major loss of dealers and sellers on eBay as the cost of selling will make it too expensive to conduct business on the site unless they raise charges to the buyer which will have buyers and sellers turned off in droves thus leading to less competition and higher prices for the general public.

Thankyou for your time

David Poulson
