I would like to submit my strtrong objection to Ebay's plan to force all it's Australian customers to make or accept payments through only Paypal.
Obviously Ebay & Paypal are joined and this is just a way of Ebay 'milking' more fees & charges from it's customers.

Ebay customers have always preferred to use internet funds transfers or bank branch deposits, from their trusted Australian banks.

It is not fair or competitive trading to force customers to use one company - and deny them using their own trusted financial institution.

Paypal charges fees, and internet banking is free, so why shouldn't we be able to use the free payment option?

Ebay is trying to 'pass off' Paypal as a safe and secure way to trade - but this is NOT true, and any experienced Ebay customer will tell you that they have been ripped-off and also never been offered any actual help by Paypal.

Please see below, the attached petition link which will show you thousands of comments from angry Ebay customers over this issue.

Please help, as this can not be considered Fair Trading, or encourage competition or freedom of choice.

I can not understand how Ebay can even consider getting away with this outrageous rule.

They are already treating it like it's a 'done-deal'.... Ebay seems to think they are unstoppable & can not be controlled.

Please Please Help....

Yours Sincerely
Amanda Shore
