And a very good afternoon to you to

I am totally against just the use of paypal even though I offer it as a payment option for my buyers and also use it to pay for items myself.

I feel that it is bordering on becoming a dictatorship.

I do not go to shop at Target for example only to be told that the only form of payment they will accept is a target card

Paypal is owned by Ebay that mean in effect they can dictate the fees and charges

I do not believe it is in anyones best interest that this move is allowed.
