TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN

I have been a small trader on eBay for more than three years. This organisation has become so big and successful that it is now following the old adage: 'Power corrupts and absolute power corrupts absolutely'.

These requirements that sellers can only accept payment through Paypal, a company owned by eBay, is effectively an anti-competitive restraint of trade and I, along with the majority of disgruntled eBayers, look to the ACCC to protect the freedom of choice which Australians hold dear and take every action possible to reverse these restrictions on free trade within the eBay community.
