Subject: Ebay Revoke Notifications

EXCLUDED FROM PUBLIC REGISTER

Dear Sir/Madam

I have read the eBay notification and their submissions to the ACCC about exclusive dealing. I have also read many submissions against the proposed conduct and the ACCC's draft notice of revocation.

I agree with the ACCC's draft notice as I believe eBay's proposed conduct would decrease competition and not have an overall public benefit. Australia is about freedom of choice for our consumers and limiting their right to use their choice is only restricting buyers ability to want buy. Paypal should only be a choice between sellers and buyers to how they see fit for their choice to buy and sell, along with direct bank deposit and other third party payment systems such as Paymate, bank cheques and other forms of payment.

I have been a member on ebay since 2005 and have only ever really used bank deposit for most of my buying transactions as its what I choose to use - I will only continue to buy and sell on ebay so long as I do not have to offer Paypal only as a payment transaction option or forced to pay via paypal only.

If I choose to sell on ebay and accept direct deposit and other fair safe payment systems and a buyer wishes to accept my payment terms, then it is no one elses business apart from the buyer and seller. Ebay are only providng the venue for the sale to take place and are in no way, shape or form involved in my sale/transaction - this has been the terms since I joined ebay in 2005.

I would appreciate you taking into account my additional comments in this email and thank you for your valued consideration of the matter and eventually to revoke immunity for ebay's PayPal only policy and as stated allow direct deposit and other payments as a payment option if a seller chooses this option for their sales and a buyer a chooses to pay with what they feel comfortable paying with. At the end of the day it's the Sellers Business and the buyers choice.

Regards,
C J Simpson.
