Ebay's policy of enforcing Paypal only has come into effect regardless of the ruling by the ACCC this is disgraceful

The decision to do this was rejected in the US and yet Paypal feels they have the right to dictate anti-competitive policies to the Australian public

In my dealings with eBay I have not once had an issue with direct deposit and found Paypal to cause issues rather than solve them, including storing personal data outside of Australia . The one purchase I have had issues with was made using Paypal and they refused to be of assistance.

regards

Michael Fowler
