Hello,

This email can be listed as public.

I am writing to congratulate the ACCC for revoking eBay's PayPal only plan.

This decision is certainly in the best interests of every Australian consumer & seller. I am certainly the best person to determine what payment methods best suit me as are all Australians. I reject eBay's paternalistic claim that PayPal offers me better protection than any other source. Further, I believe eBay seeks to implement the PayPal plan for the sole purpose of increasing income via PayPal fees under the guise of enhancing security.

I have one question. Assuming the ACCC revocation becomes final will eBay be still able to force sellers to continue offering PayPal as one of the payment options?

In my opinion it's essential that NO payment be compulsory on eBay or in any other Australian public sector or industry.

Regards,
Marks Schneider.
