Hello, Thanks for your reply which doesn't answer the question.

I would therefore like to make a submission in this matter.

It is my impression that this is an unacceptable restriction of choice aimed at forcing the seller to use their owned Paypal which will net them further profit.

There is also discrimination as per my email which can be verified in removing some ads and not others who advise their potential buyers that they will need to meet the costs should they pay by Paypal and not use the alternatives available at this current time.

I therefore request that the ACCC force Ebay to treat all their sellers equally and make available any form of payment the seller chooses to offer.

Regards

Mr Greg Bennett
