I support your draft proposal concerning the issue about ebay forcing all it's members to only use paypal as means of payment.
This restriction of competition between other parties is not a healthy way to run a auction likle ebay.
Ebay is simply trying to get more money out of sellers,in fees, but at the same time restricting peoples rights to choose which way they wish to pay.
Pay pal is not safe,they are a hi risk company to deal with and their $20.000.00 ,so called protection, is only as good as how much money the seller has in their acount,that they can freeze.
They have a mass of fine print that they bring out when an issue occurs.
I have bought and sold over 800 items and the only problem was through paypal.
This move will have no public benefit but will take business away from Australian companys,eg banks,post offices etc.
I give permission to be placed on the public register
Yours Faithfully
