

As a seller and buyer on eBay I object to what I consider restrictive trade practices in new payment options for eBay transactions.
eBay's decision to ban use of direct deposit payment directs all transactions to the eBay owned Paypal company. A portion of the payment goes directly to Paypal and thus this is simply a money-making venture for eBay.
This is the equivalent of going to Target and being forced to only use a Myer card for payment and not cash or a Visa card.
I find this to be a most unfair restriction.
Thank you for considering my perspective.
Rick Bayne

EXCLUDED FROM PUBLIC REGISTER