As grain growers in the Great Southern we support CBH's initiative in WA to run Grains Express

It seems to us, the marketers want more and more slices of the pie that we produce.

Our money, over the years, have provided CBH with the ability to build the infrastructure to store our grain and Grains Express is an extension of this. It helps to keep our costs down.

Grains Express provides a coordinated approach to moving our grain from silo to port. If this process is opened up to all and sundry it will increase costs to us the growers as opening bins to extract small tonnages is not economical plus the biggest danger is the extra exposure to weevils.

Please consider, us the growers, and give Grains Express the chance it deserves
