Dear Mr Game

Transport Workers' Union of Australia Queensland Branch on behalf of owner drivers application for authorisation A91427 – ACCC determination

Thank you for your submission concerning the application for authorisation lodged with the Australian Competition and Consumer Commission (the ACCC) by the Transport Workers' Union of Australia Queensland Branch on 5 May 2014.

As you would be aware small businesses may consider seeking authorisation from the ACCC to collectively bargain with another business where they consider that acting collectively will enable them to negotiate a more efficient outcome. Some groups will conduct the negotiations themselves, while others may appoint a representative, such as an industry association, or in some cases a union, to assist them in the bargaining process.

The ACCC has over many years authorised a broad range of small businesses to engage in collective bargaining, including dairy farmers, newsagents and hoteliers. More specifically the ACCC has authorised independent owner drivers in fields including concrete carting and milk vending to collectively bargain, some of these arrangements have provided for union assistance or participation.

The ACCC has granted authorisation allowing the Transport Workers Union to represent owner driver current and future members engaged by Toll Transport to provide air freight courier transport services at Toll Priority's Brisbane Airport Depot in collective negotiations with Toll Transport. There are currently 76 owner drivers who meet these criteria.

The ACCC has granted authorisation until 31 October 2017.

In your submission you raised concerns about evidence provided by Toll Holdings Limited (Toll Transport's parent company), concerning its arrangements and other dealings with the Transport Workers Union, at the Royal Commission Inquiry into Trade Union Governance and Corruption.

Having considered these matters it is the ACCC view that the matters before the Royal Commission are not relevant to its assessment of the collective bargaining arrangements put forward by the Transport Workers Union and their member owner drivers given the limited scope of these arrangements.

The authorisation granted by the ACCC does not extend to matters relating to:

- owner drivers who have elected not to participate in the collective bargaining arrangements
- any interaction with competing providers of transport services or with other drivers. In considering the matters you raised in your submission

A copy of the ACCC's determination is attached, including a summary of its reasons.
