- (c) other competitors of Applicant may be encouraged to offer customer discounts through various newspapers, magazines or other platforms.

5. Market definition

It is not necessary to precisely define the applicable relevant markets affected as even in the narrowest potential market the notified conduct will not result in any lessening of competition.

6. Public detriments

The notified conduct would not result in public detriment, anti-competitive or otherwise, for the following reasons.

- News Corp Australia digital news subscribers and subscribers/purchasers of newspapers would be under no obligation to accept the offers from Applicant;
- The general public would be free to acquire relevant goods or services from Applicant without any obligation to acquire a News Corp Australia news service/product.

Many printed newspapers, magazines and online media services in Australia offer discount coupons or promotions to third parties' goods and services. This is to encourage loyalty to the publication or online service by customers and advertisers and increases competition between newspapers, media and online media services.

The notified conduct would have no appreciable effect on competition between providers of news and information services.

The notified conduct would have no appreciable effect on competition between other stationery retailers (luxury or otherwise).
