

Submission by Alex Soos-20 August 2025

Yes to recycling soft plastics, but this can already be done through recycle smart who come and collect your soft plastics for free. If the big companies are going to start collecting soft plastics, they shouldn't be given any money benefit, they are already multi billion dollar companies, it should be something they want to take on for environmental reasons and to make a small difference, not to make money from the community.