Hello ACCC

The Australian health care system has worked well because decisions are made by the treating doctors in discussion with patients. Managed care constrains the care available according to an inflexible set menu approach, with the menu set according to financial goals.

I am writing to urge rejection of this terrible plan. The US health system is a vivid demonstration of a failed health system for most. The fact that American companies are sniffing at Australia is a demonstration of the profits they expect to make. Obviously they are not here for altruistic reasons.
