We write to wholeheartedly support the Resiloop Application for Exemption. The Resiloop project is an important industry supported initiative essential to the Circular Economy measures trying to be implemented not only by industry but by Federal, State and Local Governments and Corporations. It also has a important role to play in material recovery from the residential sector. It is in the industry vanguard of several industries trying to create circular material cycles from waste or reject materials throughout the economy. The benefits to the economy have the medium to long term potential to be significant, but the environmental and resource benefits and avoided impacts of those circular processes are essential as we try to resolve the parallel climate, biodiversity and waste crises we are facing. As an ACCC Approved Certification Mark, Global GreenTag are key participants in the product certification of resilient flooring products from a health, sustainability, ethic supply chain and circular economy. Resiloop and emergent schemes like it will be critical in reducing this country's (and indeed the global) carbon, biodiversity and resource footprint and we strongly support the exemption application.
