Supermarkets and big brands need to take responsibility for their waste and stop relying on the community to pay the bill. Currently many supermarkets don't have a non plastic option to choose from. Therefore if the only option we are given is plastic, there needs to be a way to recycle this sustainably. Supermarkets such as Foodworks are still offering plastic bags to customers as well - how is this still allowed! Let's make it easier and cheaper for consumers and make the producers accountable!
