The ACCC must approve the scheme only with strong conditions: • no member benefits, • independent governance, • measurable targets. It is concerning that the SPSA has mainly parties from the wrong side of the industry - no one that has actually worked with this material. If we start collecting again (as we are) we are doomed to repeat the past. In my 35 years in this industry there are only a few people that know how to handle this crappy material and until reliable markets are found for it, it shouldn't be collected.
